PRESIDENT'S REPORT

For the year ended 31 December 2014

Médecins Sans Frontières (MSF) is an international, independent, medical humanitarian organisation. We deliver emergency aid to people affected by armed conflict, epidemics, natural disasters and exclusion from healthcare.

This report is presented along with the Financial Statements of the organisation for the year ended 31 December 2014. These Financial Statements are a means of transparency and accountability, illustrating the financial situation of the movement as a whole. They have been prepared in accordance with the accounting policies set out in Note 1 to the Financial Statements.

OBJECTIVES AND POLICIES

MSF offers humanitarian assistance to people based on need and irrespective of race, religion, gender or political affiliation. We work to save lives, alleviate suffering and restore dignity. Our actions are guided by medical ethics and the principles of neutrality and impartiality.

In order to be able to access and assist people in need, our operational policies must be scrupulously independent of governments, as well as religious and economic powers. We conduct our own assessments, manage our projects directly and monitor the impact of our assistance. We do not accept funds from governments or other parties who are directly involved in the conflicts to which MSF is responding. We rely on the generosity of private individuals for the majority of our funding.

In 2014, some 7,000 health professionals, logistics specialists and administrative staff of all nationalities left on field assignments to join over 31,000 locally hired staff working in medical programmes in 63 countries.

MSF is constantly seeking to improve the quality, relevance and extent of its assistance, and is dedicated to the pursuit of innovation. The Access Campaign supports our field programmes by pushing for improved access to existing medicines, diagnostics and vaccines, and the development of better, more appropriate medicines. MSF also funds research into the development of drugs for neglected diseases.

ORGANISATIONAL STRUCTURE

MSF is a non-profit, self-governed organisation. Founded in Paris, France in 1971, MSF today is a worldwide movement of 24 associations, with offices all over the world.

MSF International is registered in Switzerland. The International General Assembly (IGA) is the highest authority of MSF. It is responsible for safeguarding MSF's medical humanitarian mission, and providing strategic orientation to all MSF entities, and meets annually in June.

The IGA comprises two representatives of each MSF association, two representatives elected by the individual members of MSF International, and the International President.

The International Board acts on behalf of and is accountable to the IGA. It is made up of representatives of MSF's operational directorates as well as a group elected by the IGA, and is chaired by the International President. The International Board prepares and presents the international combined Financial Statements to the IGA for approval.

ALL THOSE WORKING WITH MSF AGREE TO ABIDE BY THE PRINCIPLES OF THE CHARTER OF MSF AS FOLLOWS:

THE CHARTER OF MÉDECINS SANS FRONTIÈRES

Médecins Sans Frontières is a private international association. The association is made up mainly of doctors and health sector workers and is also open to all other professions that might help in achieving its aims. All of its members agree to honour the following principles:

- Médecins Sans Frontières provides assistance to populations in distress, to victims of natural or man-made disasters and to victims of armed conflict. They do so irrespective of race, religion, creed or political convictions.
- Médecins Sans Frontières observes neutrality and impartiality in the name of universal medical ethics and the right to humanitarian assistance and claims full and unhindered freedom in the exercise of its functions.
- Members undertake to respect their professional code of ethics and to maintain complete independence from all political, economic or religious powers.
- As volunteers, members understand the risks and dangers of the missions they carry out and make no claim for themselves or their assigns for any form of compensation other than that which the association might be able to afford them.

THE YEAR IN REVIEW

In 2014, the largest Ebola outbreak in history struck West Africa, the number of displaced people in the world exceeded 50 million and the war in Syria entered its fourth year.

Médecins Sans Frontières (MSF) deployed teams to work in simultaneous emergency situations across the globe, from Liberia to South Sudan, from Ukraine to Iraq. The common thread this year was one of abandonment: the sheer number of Ebola sufferers meant that at the height of the epidemic, many were left to die on their own, stripped of their dignity; in conflict zones the elderly, the disabled and the sick were often unable to escape to safety; and as high-income countries turned their attention ever inward, people in desperate need found themselves largely forgotten.

Fighting Ebola in West Africa

When the Ebola outbreak was officially declared on 22 March 2014 in Guinea, no one could have foreseen the extent of the suffering that would ensue. By the end of the year, the disease had claimed almost 8,000 lives in West Africa, including those of 13 MSF employees.

MSF and Ministry of Health staff were faced with the probability that at least 50 per cent of their patients would die from the disease, and that there was no treatment available. They worked daily with the fear of contracting Ebola themselves. As the number of cases grew, the time available to spend with each patient became increasingly limited and sometimes there were not enough staff members to safely care for the sick. Impossible compromises had to be made, such as turning people away at the gates. An MSF anthropologist in Liberia, Pierre Trbovic, told of turning away a father who had brought his sick daughter in the boot of his car: "He was an educated man, and he pleaded with me to take his teenage daughter, saying that whilst he knew we couldn't save her life, at least we could save the rest of his family from her." People died alone, in the rain, at the side of the road, in front of the Ebola centre's gates. The horror that those living and working in West Africa have been through in the last year cannot be adequately put into words.

The cross-border geographical spread of this Ebola epidemic had never been seen before, and as the previous outbreaks had been much smaller, the number of people with experience of dealing with the disease was limited. The main problem, though, was that there was simply not enough political will to combat the disease. It wasn't until 8 August – months too late – that the World Health Organization (WHO) at last declared the outbreak "a public health emergency of international concern" and that funding and manpower were unlocked. However, the aid provided was still insufficient and on 2 September, MSF appealed to the UN member states in New York for more help, including the deployment of civilian and military assets with expertise in biohazard containment.

Although MSF has learned a lot about the way Ebola behaves inside the body, much remains unknown about the virus. Before this outbreak it had never been considered a priority for research by big pharmaceutical companies as it was perceived as affecting only a limited number of economically disadvantaged patients in short-lived outbreaks in remote locations in Africa. In August, MSF made the decision to partner with research institutions, the WHO, ministries of health and pharmaceutical companies to trial experimental treatments and vaccines during the outbreak. The first trial began at MSF's centre in Guéckédou in Guinea on 17 December.

A practical plan to sustain research and development for vaccines, treatments and diagnostic tools must be developed. The events of the past year have shown how the world is failing vulnerable people in developing countries, many of whom who will never have the money to buy the medicines they need. Effective research and development that is not driven by economic gain will be key to protecting people in remote areas from resurgences and future outbreaks of Ebola and other deadly diseases.

Late in 2014, the number of Ebola cases began to decline but the epidemic is not yet behind us. An outbreak is not over until there are zero cases in a region for a period of 42 days.

The conflicts in Syria and Iraq

Another major challenge for MSF this year was gaining access to people in need of medical care. Due to bureaucratic, political or security issues – or a combination of all three – in countries such as Libya, Nigeria, Sudan, Mali and Myanmar, we were forced to reduce or even in some cases end our programmes. As a consequence, we are now re-evaluating how we work in some contexts. Syria is a good case in point. On 2 January, five MSF staff members were taken hostage by ISIS (since renamed the Islamic State (IS)) in northern Syria, despite agreements with local commanders that we would be allowed to work unhindered. Three staff members were released in April and a further two in May. The abduction led to MSF withdrawing from IS-controlled areas, and although local commanders have requested our return, we are unable to do so without guarantees from the leaders that our teams will not be harmed. Furthermore, we still do not have the government's permission to work in the areas that it controls, and we struggle to provide substantial direct medical support to civilians countrywide. Nevertheless, MSF still runs some health facilities in the country and supports networks of dedicated Syrian medical staff who often work in extremely hazardous conditions. This support, while valuable, is only possible in a few locations and falls far short of meeting the massive needs that medical teams inside Syria face.

Millions of people have fled the conflict in Syria, many going to Jordan and Lebanon where MSF has projects which treat the war-wounded and try to relieve some of the pressure on the host communities and infrastructure.

A large number of Syrian refugees have also travelled to Iraq, which itself experienced an upsurge in violence as the conflict between the Iraqi army and armed opposition groups intensified. Over the course of the year nearly two million people left their homes in search of safety. Shelling, air strikes and fighting prevented humanitarian organisations from accessing people desperately in need of medical supplies, food and water.

At least half the people boarding unseaworthy boats bound for Europe are trying to escape conflict zones, and are searching for protection and a better life. As safe channels become scarcer and land borders are sealed, asylum seekers, migrants and refugees have little option but to take to the sea. It is estimated that at least 3,500 people drowned close to European shores in 2014, many of them from Syria, Eritrea or sub-Saharan Africa. MSF has been working with asylum seekers, migrants and refugees in countries such as Greece, Bulgaria, Italy, Serbia and Egypt, providing medical consultations and psychosocial support, and distributing relief kits.

Lack of respect for the medical mission

Once again this year we have had to consider the question of what to do when MSF employees, healthcare facilities and patients are threatened or attacked. In the Central African Republic (CAR), 19 people, including three Central African MSF staff members, were killed in April during an armed robbery in the grounds of an MSF hospital in Boguila. MSF doubled its medical assistance in CAR in 2014 and started running additional projects for Central African refugees in neighbouring countries. However, staff and patient safety in CAR has remained an issue. On several occasions armed groups entered hospitals and MSF staff had to physically protect patients, shielding them from attack.

This lack of respect for the medical mission was not limited to CAR. In South Sudan, for example, patients were shot in their beds, wards were burned to the ground, medical equipment was looted, and, in one case, an entire hospital – in Leer – was completely destroyed. It will take months or even years to rebuild what took only hours to destroy. Hundreds of thousands of people are effectively being denied lifesaving assistance by acts such as these.

Our Congolese colleague, Chantal, was reunited with her family this year after being abducted by an armed group in July 2013, but Philippe, Richard and Romy are still missing and our thoughts go out to their families and friends.

Supporting hospitals in Palestine and Ukraine

When the conflict reignited between Israel and Palestine in mid-2014, MSF supported Al Shifa hospital with a full surgical team and emergency medical equipment, and made donations from its emergency stocks to the central pharmacy. Normally teams work on a fly in/fly out basis but a rise in the number of casualties led MSF to establish an emergency surgical team in Gaza between July and September to perform lifesaving operations. A permanent reconstructive surgery team was present until December.

Conflict also affected Europe this year, as the political protests that started in Ukraine in late 2013 gained momentum, leading to violent clashes between police and protestors, the removal of the president from power, and, in May, fighting between armed separatist groups and Ukrainian government forces. Medical supply lines were severely disrupted or cut completely, and health facilities' budgets were soon exhausted. As the conflict spread and intensified, MSF dramatically increased its support, and by the end of the year had provided enough supplies to treat more than 13,000 wounded patients in hospitals on both sides of the frontline.

Tackling malaria, tuberculosis and HIV

In addition to responding to emergencies this year, MSF teams continued to tackle diseases such as tuberculosis and HIV/AIDS in a number of countries, including Uzbekistan, South Africa, Cambodia and India. When cholera cases in Haiti spiked in October, MSF set up treatment centres, distributed disinfection kits and implemented awareness and education activities. In Niger, in collaboration with other organisations, teams worked to reduce under-five mortality, with a particular focus on children with severe malnutrition and malaria. Our programmes also looked at ways of improving treatment protocols and models of care, for example by supporting community adherence clubs and expanding viral load testing. From treating kala azar in South Sudan to providing comprehensive care for victims of sexual violence in Honduras, MSF worked in some of the most challenging environments around the world in 2014.

Looking forward

The Ebola crisis highlighted global failures in the humanitarian aid and health systems, which had been present for years but had never before been so evident. What struck MSF most strongly this year, however, were the lack of global leadership and the reticence of those in power to engage in the Ebola response. We were vocal about this, but ultimately MSF is a patient-focused organisation and our attention remains primarily on those in need of medical care and not on overhauling global systems. MSF concentrates on individuals and we are constantly striving to provide assistance to those who need it most. Our role is to save patients' lives, today, and we respond to crises with that at the forefront of our minds. We could not work in this way without our supporters and our teams around the world. We want to take this opportunity to thank you all.

TREASURER'S REPORT

COMBINED ACCOUNTS 2014

MSF is pleased to present its audited combined Financial Statements. The combined accounts represent an aggregation of the audited Financial Statements of the 21 main offices worldwide (Australia, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Denmark, France, Germany, Greece, Holland, Hong Kong, Italy, Japan, Luxembourg, Norway, South Africa, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, the United Kingdom and the United States), together with the Financial Statements of the offices in Argentina, the Czech Republic, Republic of Korea and Ireland), satellite organisations (MSF Supply, MSF Logistique, Epicentre, Fondation MSF, Etat d'Urgence Production, MSF Assistance, SCI MSF, SCI Sabin, Fondation MSF Belgique, Ärzte Ohne Grenzen Foundation and MSF Enterprises Limited) and MSF International. The combined Financial Statements provide a view of MSF's work internationally and are a means of transparency and accountability.

INCOME

2014 saw an increase in income for MSF compared with 2013. Total incoming resources of 1.28 billion euros for 2014 were 272 million euros more than in 2013. 2014's higher income was due mainly to the increased private income received. More than 5.7 million individual donors and private funders provided 89% of MSF's income in 2014.

EXPENDITURE

Total expenditure in 2014 was 1.07 billion euros, an increase of 114 million euros over 2013. This expenditure can be broken down into two main categories: social mission and other expenses. The table below breaks down these categories still further.

	In millions of €
	2014	2013
Programmes	699	615
Headquarters programme support	114	109
Témoignage / awareness-raising	31	30
Other humanitarian activities	14	9
Total social mission	858	764
Fundraising	147	132
Management and general administration	60	57
Extraordinary expenses & Income tax	1	0
Total other expenses	208	189
Total	1,066	953

The result of the above is that, in 2014 80% of MSF's total expenditure was spent on social mission and 20% on other expenses (2013 80% and 20% respectively.)

PROGRAMME EXPENDITURE

Countries where we ran programmes with spending over 10 million euros in 2014 or 2013 are listed below.

	In millions of €
	2014	2013
South Sudan	83	51
Democratic Republic of Congo	70	78
Central African Republic	53	26

Myanmar	14	16
Zimbabwe	14	20
Sudan	12	17
India	10	9
Philippines	7	16
Somalia	–	21
Other countries with spending under 10 million euros	156	162
Total	699	615

Those countries listed separately above accounted for 76% of MSF's 2014 programme expenditure (2013: 74%).

RESULT FOR THE YEAR AND RESERVES POLICY

The result for 2014, after adjusting for exchange gains/losses, shows a surplus of 224 million euros (surplus 48 million euros for 2013). MSF has a reserves policy, at an international level, of holding a minimum of three months and a maximum of twelve months of total expenditure as retained earnings. The level of reserves as at 31 December 2014 equates to approximately 9.8 months (7.9 months for 2013) of the year's activity (see Note 2.14).

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1 SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

These Financial Statements are based on a combination. A combination aggregates the Financial Statements of several separate entities which are not inter-related by investments into a single group, whereas a consolidation collates different affiliates of a single parent entity in its Financial Statements.

These combined financial statements have been prepared in accordance with MSF accounting policies, a summary of which is presented in this Note 1. To the extent feasible for a non-profit and non-governmental organisation like MSF, accounting principles are initially based on the IFRS as adopted by the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB).

SPECIFIC METHODS USED FOR COMBINED ACCOUNTS

Equity accumulation

Since the first combination of an entity does not result from the purchase of shares, combined equity represents the aggregated equity capital and other equity of the combined entities. Investments between combined entities are eliminated against equity.

These combined financial statements have been prepared in accordance with MSF accounting policies, a summary of which is presented in Note 1. To the extent feasible for a non-profit and non-governmental organisation like MSF, accounting principles are initially based on the IFRS as adopted by the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB).

Initial measurement of the combined entities' assets and liabilities

Since the first combination of an entity does not result from the purchase of shares but from a pooling of economic interests, neither goodwill nor fair value adjustments exist. The assets and liabilities of each combined entity are initially measured at net book value, based on MSF accounting policies.

Subsequent measurement of the combined entities' assets and liabilities

After the first combination, capital gains or losses, provision allowances and reversals contribute to the combined surplus or deficit.

The combined Financial Statements comprise the:

- Statement of Financial Position
- Statement of Financial Activities
- Statement of Cash Flows
- Statement of Changes in Retained Earnings and Equities
- Notes to the Financial Statements.

1.1 BASIS OF PRESENTATION

The Financial Statements are presented in euros, rounded to the nearest thousand. They are prepared in accordance with the historical cost convention.

The Financial Statements have been prepared and presented according to the principles of accruals, matching, going concern, consistency and prudence.

Figures are rounded and therefore may vary slightly from the amounts presented in other documents. Rounding differences may exist within summations.

1.2 FOREIGN CURRENCY TRANSLATION

The individual Statements of Financial Position of the combined entities are translated into euros at the year-end rate.

The individual Statements of Financial Activities of the combined entities are translated at the average rate for the current year.

The main currency exchange rates compared to the euro are as follows:

1.3 CHANGE IN ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The 2014 Financial Statements do not contain any changes in accounting policies compared with 2013.

1.4 INTANGIBLE ASSETS AND PROPERTY, PLANT AND EQUIPMENT

Intangible assets are recorded at cost (or historical value), net of accumulated amortisation and impairment losses. They are amortised on a straight-line basis over their estimated useful lives.

Property, plant and equipment are recorded at their acquisition cost, including incidental expenses. They are depreciated using the straight-line method over their estimated useful lives, using the component approach. Land is not depreciated.

The acquisition cost of fixed assets used in the field for programme purposes, such as vehicles and medical and communication equipment, is expensed upon shipment to the field, or upon purchase if purchased locally. When an MSF section leaves a country, the remaining equipment is donated to the Ministry of Health of the country or another non-governmental organisation still present in the country, and thus does not generate any future economic benefit for MSF.

Finance leases

Assets acquired under long-term finance leases are capitalised and recorded in the Statement of Financial Position as tangible fixed assets. They are depreciated over the estimated useful lives of the assets. The associated obligations are included in financial debts.

1.5 FINANCIAL ASSETS

Financial assets are stated at fair value. Changes in the value of long-term investments are recorded in the Statement of Financial Position. Changes in the value of current investments and other financial assets are recognised in the Statement of Financial Activities.

1.6 INVENTORIES

Inventories held at headquarters and by satellites are recorded at the weighted average of the purchase price. All goods and materials present in the field are recognised as expenses when transferred from the headquarters and satellites to the field, or when bought locally.

Appropriate inventory reserves are recorded based on stock usage, expiry date and any damage.

1.7 RECEIVABLES AND OTHER ASSETS

Grants receivable correspond to funds owed to MSF by third parties according to a formal agreement. They result from the differences between the cumulative allowable expenses incurred and the funds received for each of these agreements.

Contributions receivable include donations sent by donors before year-end for which the corresponding cash has been collected by MSF in the month following year-end. They are accounted for at fair value, at their cost net of impairment.

Legacies and bequests are accounted for on a cash basis and are therefore not included in receivables.

Other receivables and other assets are recorded at their fair value.

1.8 CASH AND CASH EQUIVALENTS

MSF considers short-term deposits, cash at headquarters and cash in the field as cash and cash equivalents. Amounts are valued at fair value with any resulting gains or losses recognised in the Statement of Financial Activities. For the Statement of Cash Flows, overdrafts are included as a negative component of cash equivalents.

1.9 PROVISIONS

Provisions are valued at best estimate when MSF has a legal or constructive obligation as the result of a past event, and if it is probable that an outflow of assets will be required to settle the provision.

1.10 FINANCIAL DEBTS, ACCOUNTS PAYABLE AND ACCRUED EXPENSES

Financial debts are recorded at fair value. Trade accounts payable to suppliers are recorded on an invoice basis when the invoices are received by the time of preparation of the financial statements, or valued at best estimate if no invoice is received later. Staff costs and litigation in the field are recorded on the cash basis when there is insufficient information available to evaluate the amount of any financial impact at year-end. Accruals for paid vacation of local field staff have been recorded only by some operational offices as at 31 December 2014, as complete information was not available at year-end. Grants payable and other debts are accounted for at their fair value.

1.11 DEFERRED INCOME

Deferred income on public institutional and private grants is recognised on the basis of the difference between the cash received and the cumulative allowable expenses to date for each of the formal agreements concerned. Unspent donor-designated/restricted donations represent contributions received with a specific earmarking that have not been spent at year-end.

1.12 RETAINED EARNINGS AND EQUITIES

Retained earnings represent the cumulative surpluses and deficits of current and previous years. They comprise:

- Permanently restricted funds, which may be capital funds, where the assets are required by the donors to be invested or retained for long term use, rather than expended short term, or which may be the minimum compulsory level of retained earnings to be maintained in some countries.
- Unrestricted funds, which are unspent donor non-designated funds to be spent at the discretion of MSF's trustees to further MSF's social mission.
- Other retained earnings and equities, which represent foundations' capital, and translation adjustments arising from the translation of entities' financial statements into euros. Unspent donor-designated/restricted funds are not included as retained earnings, but are treated as deferred income.

1.13 INCOME

MSF's income comprises contributions from public generosity and public institutional bodies, as well as revenues from other activities. Private income is donated by individuals and private organisations (companies, trusts and foundations, and other non-profit organisations). Public institutional income represents grants (i.e. contributions based on contracts for specific projects), subsidies and donations received from or pledged directly by public institutional bodies, such as governments or agencies. Income from other activities is mainly from merchandising, equipment and services provided to other organisations, and financial transactions.

Restrictions

Income is considered as restricted only when subject to a donor-imposed restriction. Donors include all the external parties that contribute to MSF's resources. A donor-imposed restriction is a stipulation and limitation on the use of contributed assets or monetary donations. The restriction can relate to purpose (country, programme or activity), time or other specific wishes (e.g. vaccines). Funds received for 'emergencies' are treated as restricted if the emergency is explicitly specified by the donor or can be inferred from the circumstances, but are otherwise regarded as unrestricted, as the provision of emergency aid embodies MSF's mission. Donations with donor-imposed restrictions are reported as restricted for their full amount. Unspent restricted donations are carried forward as deferred income. Grants are reported as restricted income for the allowable expenses incurred in the current year.

Donations

Donations are based on non-reciprocal transfers of cash or other assets, or cancellation of liabilities. They are recognised as income upon receipt.

Legacies and bequests

If legacies and bequests are restricted by a donor's will for use by the organisation (sale or distribution forbidden), they are accounted for as restricted income and as assets, classified as appropriate (building, other financial assets, other inventories) at their estimated amount, when accepted by the entity's Board. If not restricted by donors, legacies and bequests are accounted for when realised in cash.

Grants

Grants are recognised as income for the allowable expenses incurred in the current year. At year-end, the difference between the cash received and the cumulative expenses incurred is accounted for as grants receivable or deferred income.

In-kind donations and services

In-kind donations are not accounted for in the Statement of Financial Activities. The act of volunteering to work in MSF's humanitarian projects is not recorded in the accounts. This contribution represents one of the bases of the MSF Charter and principles.

1.14 EXPENDITURE

Expenses are allocated according to the full cost method. The principle of the full cost method is to collate under each expense category not only the direct costs that are specifically associated with it (direct allowable costs), but also an apportionment of the indirect costs (overheads). Therefore, all expenditure categories include salaries, direct costs and allocated overheads (e.g. building costs and depreciation).

1.15 FINANCIAL RISK MANAGEMENT

Foreign currency risk

Some MSF entities use forward foreign exchange contracts to hedge the exposure to foreign exchange risks arising from significant internal transfers denominated in a different currency to the one in which the expenditure will be incurred.

Interest rate risk

MSF has no significant long-term loans.

Credit risk

MSF prioritises the security of its cash and cash equivalents. Investments are generally held in liquid securities, and in banks of high credit rating. The receivables are mostly from governments with high credit rating, where credit risk is low. Other positions are not material, or are covered by provisions. Investments are allowed only in liquid securities and only with counterparties that have a high credit rating. At year-end, there were no significant concentrations of credit risk.

Liquidity risk

Due to the nature of MSF's funding, together with its reserves policy, the liquidity risk is insignificant.

1.16 EMPLOYEE BENEFITS

The nature of pension plans for headquarters and international employees depends on the normal custom for the contracting country of the employee. Pension obligations are usually covered by a defined contribution plan with an independent organisation. Contributions to a defined contribution plan are recognised as an expense in the Statement of Financial Activities in the year in which they are incurred.

Other countries or restrictions are either not country-specific, or represent the countries for which restricted funds of fewer than one thousand euros remain unspent. They mainly include: 5,719 thousand euros (4,492 thousand for 2013) of Charitable Gift Annuity Trusts in MSF USA. A Charitable Gift Annuity Trust is a type of donation that is restricted in time by the donor and thus treated as deferred income. The donation will be recognised as income in MSF accounts upon maturity of the trust.

17,444 thousand euros unspent for the Ebola emergency but not yet allocated to any specific country. Amounts allocated to specific countries are included in their corresponding line.

2.14 RETAINED EARNINGS AND EQUITIES

MSF's retained earnings have been built up over the years by surpluses of income over expenses. At 31 December 2014, the available portion (excluding permanently restricted funds and capital for foundations) represents 9.8 months of activity (2013: 7.9 months). The purpose of maintaining retained earnings is to meet the following needs:

- working capital needs over the course of the year, as fundraising traditionally has seasonal peaks while expenditure is relatively constant;
- speedy operational response to humanitarian needs that will be funded by forthcoming public fundraising campaigns and/or by public institutional funding;
- future major humanitarian emergencies for which sufficient funding cannot be obtained;
- the sustainability of long-term programmes (e.g. antiretroviral treatment programmes); or
- a sudden drop in private and/or public institutional funding that cannot be matched in the short term by a reduction in expenditure.

3.2.3 HEADQUARTERS PROGRAMME SUPPORT

Headquarters programme support relates to expenses incurred at headquarters in order to carry out MSF humanitarian operations (e.g. project design, monitoring and evaluation, recruitment of international staff, activities designed to improve the quality and effectiveness of MSF operations).

3.2.4 TÉMOIGNAGE / AWARENESS-RAISING

Témoignage / awareness-raising activities comprise expenses incurred by MSF in an educational manner to further its social mission. They represent the situations where MSF bears witness and speaks out about the plight of the populations it serves through mobilisation of the international community and by communicating publicly in order to inform, put pressure on responsible actors, and stimulate action.

MSF's Access Campaign is made up of a team of medical, legal, policy and communication specialists. It pushes to lower the prices of existing drugs, vaccines and diagnostic tests; to stimulate research and development into new treatments for diseases that primarily affect the poor; and to overcome other barriers that prevent patients from getting the treatment they need.

3.2.5 OTHER HUMANITARIAN ACTIVITIES

Other humanitarian activities consist primarily of the cost of the goods sold and services provided to other organisations, as well as MSF's contribution to the Drugs for Neglected Diseases initiative (see Note 5.1.2).

3.2.6 FUNDRAISING

Fundraising expenses represent the costs incurred for raising funds from all possible sources of income, be they private or public institutional.

3.2.7 MANAGEMENT AND GENERAL ADMINISTRATION

Management and general administration expenses consist primarily of expenses associated with executive management, headquarters financial and human resources management, internal communication and the associative life of the organisation.

3.2.8 INCOME TAX

MSF is exempt from income taxes in most countries in which its entities are based.

3.2.9 NET EXCHANGE GAINS/LOSSES UNREALISED AND REALISED

The net exchange gains/losses represent the gains/losses generated from foreign currency transactions entered into during the year by the various offices. The exchange rate fluctuations that had the largest impact on the Statement of Financial Activities relate to the US dollar (USD), Norwegian krona (NOK), Swiss franc (CHF), and Japanese yen (JPY), and Australian dollar (AUD).

Funds coming from non-public-institutional sources represented 91.0% of MSF total income in 2014 (2013: 90.8%). More than 5.7 million (2013: 5.0 million) individual donors and private funders worldwide made this possible.

Programmes relate to the aid projects undertaken by MSF and include the direct expenses incurred in the different countries of intervention. Indirect supply costs represent the costs dedicated to the projects and associated with the delivery of emergency relief supplies.

698,074 thousand euros were spent in direct connection with the projects (2013: 615,362 thousand euros). The indirect supply costs of the logistics satellites stood at 15,071 thousand euros (2013: 15,840 thousand euros).

These expenses were funded by 110,554 thousand euros from public institutional bodies (2013: 87,851 thousand), the balance being funded by unrestricted and restricted private funds.

The difference of 4,106 thousand euros between public institutional income as stated in the Statement of Financial Activities (Note 4.2.2) and the amount mentioned above represents the funding of expenses and activities incurred or undertaken at headquarters level (2013: 5,116 thousand euros).

31,052 locally hired staff and 2,769 international staff worked directly with the projects (2013: 29,910 locally hired staff and 2,629 International staff) as explained in note 5.3.2.

Figures for the previous year are presented in total for comparative purposes. They are not presented in the following pages for the different countries/regions of intervention because the emergency nature of MSF's action means that year to year comparison by country/region of intervention is of limited value.

5 OTHER INFORMATION

5.1 COMMITMENTS

5.1.1 GRANTS

Some programmes are partly financed by public institutional grants. These grants may cover more than a one-year period and may not match with the financial year. The following disclosure presents the outstanding amount that MSF has committed to spend according to proposals agreed by the different bodies.

MSF participated in the establishment of the Drugs for Neglected Diseases initiative (DNDi) with six other organisations: five public sector institutions – the Oswaldo Cruz Foundation from Brazil, the Indian Council for Medical Research, the Kenya Medical Research Institute, the Ministry of Health of Malaysia and France's Pasteur Institute – and one international research organisation, the Special Programme for Research and Training in Tropical Diseases (TDR), which is a permanent observer to the initiative.

DNDi became a legal entity in July 2003 and MSF was one of the founding partners. MSF's objective in its involvement in the creation of DNDi was to help create a research and development initiative for neglected diseases, which in time would be self-financing and in a position to work independently of MSF. Accordingly, MSF committed itself to be involved initially for five years. A subsequent period of support was agreed until 2014. In 2013 the IGA decided to continue the support and commitment towards DNDi at the level of 4 million euros per year until 2018.
